TRANSLATION COURSE

COOK DE LKVDOLION

A stylized illustration of a woman with long brown hair, wearing a blue dress and red high-heeled shoes, sitting cross-legged on a tall stack of colorful books. She is holding an open book and looking down at it. The background features faint, overlapping text related to education and technology, such as "Studies", "commission", "technological", "Tourism focuses", "information", "given", "diplom", "need", "academic", "two", and "national".

Translation and interpretation involve the conversion of the meaning of written or spoken content from one language to another. While translation refers to written material, interpreting refers to oral translation or sign language. Professionals in the field have a thorough knowledge of the languages used, but they must also have a correct understanding of the subject.
